Reverse Fairy Tale

Poems by

Linda Goodman Robiner

Pudding House Publications

Chapbook series #90

$7.95

This collection reflects a long journey many readers will find shockingly familiar. Divorce is the more common reality at some point in our lives and many mediocre poets have written volumes during that stage of their lives; however, Linda Goodman Robiner's poetry succeeds artistically as it covers her journey long before and after the trying time. These poems have not been written before and they do not keep us down; instead, they celebrate self-actualization and the road home to oneself. Those who know what that claim means will snap up this little collection and add to their increasing respect for the power of poetry to move us beyond, even as we create art with language, which is this collection's best reason for existence.
